

Prime Time Farncombe History Walk

RSVP by 10th May

Godalming oozes charm and quaintness and gets lots of attention when it comes to history.

Farncombe has its history too and this walk, led by church member Martyn Sandford uncovers some of the hidden details. Along the way, we will pause to consider some of the people, places and things that have made Farncombe the place it is today.

In particular, we will discover the part transport has played in local prosperity. The walk is 2.7 miles in length and almost level.

The picture on the left is Broadwater House. Sadly it is no more but we will visit the place where it stood and explore the remains of its estate. It was home to the influential Marshall family; one of whom, Sarah, is commemorated by a stained glass window in the chancel at Busbridge Church under her married name of Shearburn
